

- (1) What type of creature is the 'horny toad': lizard, frog or salamander?

Lizard.

- (2) Ex-bus driver Terry Parsons became what singing star?

Mat Monroe.

- (3) The world's largest delta is at the mouth of which river: Amazon, Nile or Ganges?

Ganges.

- (4) What deep red fruit is also called a 'bounce berry'?

Cranberry.

- (5) In 1994, who became the first woman to host the Oscar ceremony solo: Ellen DeGeneres, Jane Fonda or Whoopi Goldberg?

Whoopi Goldberg.

- (6) Instead of bones, a shark's skeleton is made of what?

Cartilage.

- (7) Which of these outlaws was born first: Ned Kelly, Rob Roy or Billy the Kid?

Rob Roy.

- (8) The July Cup horserace is run on what English racecourse?

Newmarket.

- (9) Colonel Protheroe's murder was the first crime solved by what sleuth: Miss Marple, Jessica Fletcher or Hetty Wainthropp?

Miss Marple.

- (10) D and what other letter have a two-point value in Scrabble?

G.

- (11) With what country does France share its longest border: Germany, Spain or Switzerland?
Spain.
- (12) What is the first symbol on the periodic table to use two-letters?
Helium.
- (13) In the binary system, 1-0-0-0 represents what number: 2, 4 or 8?
Eight.
- (14) The Victory Medal was awarded to allied service men who fought in which war?
World War I.
- (15) The name of which African country means 'Land of Incorruptible People': Burkina Faso, Eritrea or Mozambique?
Burkina Faso.
- (16) Simon, Ralf and Piggy are characters in which novel?
Lord of the Flies.
- (17) In what year was a waxwork of Winston Churchill first displayed at Madame Tussauds: 1908, 1938 or 1968?
1908.
- (18) 'So good' is a trademark of what fast food chain?
KFC.
- (19) The 'Hawaiian Missionaries' are a famous and highly collectable set of what: coins, butterflies or postage stamps?
Postage stamps.
- (20) Since 1987 to 2015, name the ten teams that have won the most games at the Rugby Union World Cup? (Not including any qualifying rounds)
New Zealand, Australia, France, England, South Africa, Scotland, Ireland, Wales, Argentina & Samoa.

- (21) Which is the only country to have held the Summer Olympics in three different cities?

USA.

- (22) The Ards Peninsular is in what country of the UK?

Northern Ireland.

- (23) The watery fluid in plants has what name?

Sap.

- (24) The grouse shooting season in the UK ends in what month?

December.

- (25) How old is Lisa Simpson?

Eight.

- (26) The word cartoon is derived from what modern language?

Italian.

- (27) A poem at the base of what statute ends 'I left my lamp besides the golden door'?

The Statue of Liberty.

- (28) Lake Vostock is the largest lake on what continent?

Antarctica.

- (29) In 1993, the cartoon Beavis and Butt-head was launched on what TV channel?

MTV.

- (30) In Monopoly, the utilities cost how much to buy individually?

£150.

- (31) Who declared that the marriage between Henry VIII and Catherine of Aragon was void: Thomas Cranmer, Thomas More or Thomas Wolsey?
Thomas Cranmer.
- (32) In the nursery rhyme, what was the destination of the person who met a man with seven wives?
St Ives.
- (33) Which of these former Yugoslav republics is landlocked: Slovenia, Montenegro or Serbia?
Serbia.
- (34) Heliopolis was an ancient city in which country?
Egypt.
- (35) What was the title of Carly Simon's 1982 Top Ten hit: Who, What or Why?
Why.
- (36) Which two colours make up the flag of Greenland?
White and red.
- (37) The first five books of the Bible are collectively known as the 'Books of...' which prophet: Abraham, Moses or Elijah?
Moses.
- (38) Green Point and Bushwick are areas of what New York borough
Brooklyn.
- (39) Which country was the first to win the Rugby World Cup twice: New Zealand, South Africa or Australia?
Australia.
- (40) According to IMDB, name the ten servants employed by the Earl of Grantham in TV's 'Downton Abbey' that appeared in the most number of episodes from series 1 to series 6 including Christmas specials? (Not including Dr Clarkson)
Mr Carson, Mrs Hughes, Mr Bates, Mrs Patmore, Anna Bates, Thomas Barrow, Daisy Mason, Joseph Molesley, Tom Branson & Miss O'Brien.