

(1) In the 2015 film 'Steve Jobs', who plays the title character: Michael Fassbender, Bradley Cooper or Justin Timberlake?

Michael Fassbender.

(2) In 1914, Sir Edward Grey famously said, "The lamps are going out all over..." where?

Europe.

(3) Said to account for 66% of 'catastrophic sports-related injuries, what is the most dangerous sport for women in the USA: roller derby, cheerleading or lacrosse?

Cheerleading.

(4) What game show was last presented by Noel Edmonds in 1998?

Telly Addicts.

(5) What letter of the alphabet begins the most names of chemical elements in English: A, B or C?

C.

(6) In a poem, what town did John Betjeman 'want to get ready for the plough'?

Slough.

(7) 'Ananas comosus' is the botanical name for what tropical fruit-bearing plant: banana, pineapple or mango?

Pineapple.

(8) The 'Drunken Bakers' feature in what British comic?

Viz.

(9) Which TV game show had the same theme tune as 'Grange Hill': Ask the Family, Call my Bluff or Give Us a Clue?

Give Us a Clue.

(10) In what book of the Bible is the city of Sodom destroyed?

Genesis.

(11) What was the occupation of the legendary North American hero Paul Bunyan: blacksmith, cowboy or lumberjack?

Lumberjack.

(12) What gates at Anfield have "You'll Never Walk Alone" above them?

Shankly Gates.

(13) Which city was known in the 19th century as Woolopolis: Bradford, Manchester or Leeds?

Bradford.

(14) What spoon size comes between a tablespoon and teaspoon?

Dessertspoon.

(15) A 'savarin' is a type of what: cake, bread or pastry?

Cake.

(16) In 'The Good, The Bad and The Ugly', who played 'The Bad'?

Lee Van Cleef.

(17) Which future monarch did Henry VIII refer to as "this whole realm's most precious jewel": Edward VI, Elizabeth I or Mary I?

Edward VI.

(18) What is the American version of 'Family Fortunes' called?

Family Feud.

(19) 'Orthorexia' is an obsession with eating foods that are regarded as what: raw, healthy or fatty?

Healthy.

(20) Name the ten National capital cities that were EU member states on 30th January 2020 that have the largest populations?

Paris, London, Madrid, Rome, Berlin, Athens, Lisbon, Brussels, Vienna & Bucharest.

(21) What is a female crocodile called?

Cow.

(22) What male name appears most often in the titles of Shakespeare plays?

Henry.

(23) What was the second Dan Brown novel to feature Robert Langdon?

The Da Vinci Code.

(24) In the comic books, what is the name of Superman's pet dog?

Krypto.

(25) Traditionally, what colour chillies are used to make a 'jalfrezi'?

Green.

(26) Ghandi was assassinated in what Indian city?

Delhi.

(27) In the cartoon 'Peanuts' Snoopy has what colour ears?

Black.

(28) Jack Dee and Peter Kay have both appeared in TV ads for which beer?

John Smith's.

(29) What colour grape is dried to make a sultana?

White.

(30) Which Commonwealth country dropped 'Knights' and 'Dames' from its honour system in 2015?

Australia.

- (31) Which US President was previously a sheriff and hangman: Abraham Lincoln, Grover Cleveland or Woodrow Wilson?
Grover Cleveland.
- (32) Which book of the Bible is also known as the 'first book of Moses'?
Genesis.
- (33) At a height of five and a half feet, approximately how far away is the horizon: 3 miles, 13 miles or 23 miles?
3 miles.
- (34) The area on an American football field where a touch down is scored is called what?
End Zone.
- (35) The Emperor Nero forbade anyone other than himself to wear clothes of what colour: green, yellow or purple?
Purple.
- (36) In Dante's Inferno, how many circles of hell are there?
Nine.
- (37) Which of these Baltic capitals is furthest north: Vilnius, Riga or Tallinn?
Tallinn.
- (38) For four years TV presenter Kate Humble was president of what charity?
RSPB.
- (39) What did John Alexander Brodie add to the game of football in 1889: corner flags, penalty spots or goal nets?
Goal nets.
- (40) Name the ten British sitcoms first aired the 1990s and 2000s voted as the best ever by Radio Times readers?
Father Ted, I'm Alan Partridge, The Royle Family, Absolutely Fabulous, Dinnerladies, The Thick of It, The Office, Peep Show, The Vicar of Dibley & Gavin & Stacey.